As a 100% family-owned company in its fifth generation, we have embraced responsibility for over a century – for our employees, our products, and our environment. This commitment is deeply embedded in our daily operations. We foster a culture of fairness and mutual respect, both within our company and across all our global locations. We ensure fair working conditions and equitable wages at all our sites.

Our goal is to create long-lasting, high-quality products that are produced with care for people and the planet. Every ANITA product is developed in-house, rigorously tested, meticulously manufactured, and thoroughly inspected before reaching the customer. On average, each product consists of 25 components and passes through approximately 50 pairs of hands – each step carried out with great attention to detail.
