Exact Replacement

It seems like every light fixture you buy nowadays uses a different light bulb. Fine, as long as they last. The good news is that I've had good enough life from the originals. But, then, the bulb fails and what do you do? In this case, and others, I've found that replacements are stocked on Amazon and at a reasonable price.

Here, I had an $800 range hood with one light out. There's no way to even consider replacing the hood. Luckily, and for a good price, I found this replacement. As recommended, don't touch the bulb with your bare hands. The oil from you hands will shorten the life of all of this type of bulb. Easy enough to use a napkin or Kleenex to replace.
