* The Common European Framework divides learners into three broad divisions that can be divided into six levels; for each level, it describes what a learner is supposed to be able to do in reading, listening, speaking and writing.

The QUO VADIS Educational Centre was founded in 2003. Since then the centre has become an acknowledged and widely recognised international language teaching leader in Moldova. QUO VADIS offers a wide range of language courses, designed around the specific needs of learners of all ages, and managed by an experienced and professionally qualified team of teachers and administrators. The centre is confident of providing the highest academic standards, progressive teaching methods and approaches, such as the 'Communicative Approach' that works to develop all four language skills. Modern educational technology ensures that the learning process is the most enjoyable, successful and productive. QUO VADIS aims to create an interactive and friendly environment that highly motivates the learners to progress in their language fluency.
