RE: Letter of Reference — Atomate Limited S.R.L.

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to recommend Atomate Limited S.R.L. as a highly capable and reliable technology partner. As Founder and CEO of StoryMD, I have worked closely with Atomate since 2021 on a significant multi-year engagement covering the full software development lifecycle: requirements analysis, sprint-based implementation, quality assurance, platform launch, and continuous maintenance.

The platform launched successfully in 2022 and remains in active development. Atomate has been a cornerstone of StoryMD's technical delivery. Their expertise spans React, Node.js, REST API design, secure data handling, and AWS cloud infrastructure.

Throughout our collaboration, the Atomate team has been technically excellent, highly communicative, security-conscious, and genuinely invested in long-term product success. I recommend them without reservation for any complex web development engagement.

Sincerely,

Alexander Tsiaras

About StoryMD

StoryMD is a patient-centric digital health company founded in 2017, headquartered in Brooklyn, New York. Its platform combines proprietary AI technology with the world's largest medical content and visual library to help individuals track, understand, and manage their personal health journey. The platform unifies clinical, wearable, and behavioral data into a personalized health narrative, empowering users from conception through all stages of life. StoryMD's flagship product, My StoryMD Journeys, was launched in November 2025. Alexander Tsiaras, a pioneer in medical visualization whose work has been used by NASA and Yale University, founded the company.
